

God created the world perfect, but humanity has ruined it by greed and selfishness.	I believe God loves the whole Earth: after all, it's God's own creation.	God made every species, and is grieved and hurt when any species dies out.	Hindu teaching says: "All life is one. Don't kill or eat animals. Love the whole planet." I agree.
Climate change is killing the poor first, but then it will kill the rich.	Religious and non-religious people should unite to tackle climate change.	Christians believe God has made us stewards of the Earth, to look after it. I agree.	To save the world from humanity, it helps to pray: this can change our consciousness.
Being stewards of God's Earth means we can do what we like with it.	The Jewish Psalm says: "The Earth is the Lord's and everything in it." The Bible was green before us!	Allah tells Muslims in the Qur'an to be 'khalifa' - good rulers - over the physical Earth. Islam's green.	Climate change is affecting the poor most. Fight for climate justice and against poverty!
Lifestyle changes can't save the planet. Political action is essential, big scale.	Christianity should be a much 'greener' religion.	The Gaia Hypothesis says, 'Treat the world like one living organism.' It's good advice!	If Christians are 'stewards' of God's good Earth, they have made a lousy job of it.
It doesn't matter too much if we lose some species from the planet. Save the humans.	Saving the planet is a purely human responsibility. Don't expect divine help! It's up to us.	Jesus asked us all to 'consider the lilies of the field and the sparrows'. He's for biodiversity.	Religion - Christianity in particular - has to answer for big environmental damage.
The world is a kind of beautiful accident. All the more reason to care for it.	It's astonishing that the universe evolved: we're very lucky. That's why we must fight climate change.	Humanity has evolved through time and chance. I think we deserve to die out next!	???